DO YOU OFFER MINI PORTRAIT SESSIONS?

Great question! You may have seen other photographers offering “mini sessions” — quick 10–15 minute shoots with a small handful of images. They’re super popular because they look like a bargain and are often used by photographers to fill quieter periods. Nothing wrong with that at all... it’s just not how I work.

I prefer to create images that feel personal, intentional, and timeless — and that takes a little more breathing room. My sessions aren’t rushed, because neither are the people in them. I take the time to get to know you, understand your personalities, your style, and what you’re hoping to create. That collaboration is what makes the final images truly special.

Here’s the fun part: for only $350, you get a full creative session with unlimited images — not 10. And while some “mini” sessions around here cost about $400 for just 15 minutes and 10 images, my sessions run anywhere from 15 minutes to 2 hours, depending on our goals and how much time you have. No rush, no pressure... just great photos.

In short? I don’t offer minis because your story deserves more than 15 minutes.

BOOK SESSION

Boudoir

Boudoir photography isn't just about beautiful photos — it's a powerful journey that helps you see yourself in a whole new light. It's about feeling confident, radiant, and unapologetically YOU.

Here's why so many find boudoir sessions truly transformative:

Feel Confident and Beautiful in Your Own Skin

A boudoir shoot at our Albury studio is designed to help you embrace your unique beauty. Guided by a professional photographer, you'll be encouraged to let go of any self-doubt and celebrate your natural sensuality. The lighting, poses, and styling are tailored to highlight your best features and minimise anything you're less comfortable with.

Take Control of Your Story

One of the most empowering aspects of boudoir photography is that you're in charge. You decide your outfits, poses, and the mood you want to express. You also choose who gets to see your images — it's all about your comfort and your vision.

Celebrate You — No Matter Your Shape or Size

Boudoir photography celebrates every unique form and spirit. It's a beautiful way to honour your body, embrace your sensuality, and feel proud of yourself exactly as you are.

If you've been thinking about doing a boudoir shoot, know that it's not just about the photos — it's about how those photos make you feel: confident, empowered, and beautiful.

This style of photography is especially suited to:

- ~ Lingerie / boudoir or implied Fine art Nudes
- ~ Soft glamour portraiture.
- ~ Elegant / discreet Art to decorate bedrooms and private areas
- ~ Clients wanting something tasteful and understated.

ACTORS, MUSICIANS, DANCERS & MODELS

Actors, musicians, dancers, and models use personal branding and head shots as part of their professional portfolio to showcase their look and style to potential agents, casting directors, and producers. Head shots may also be used for promotional materials, such as posters and brochures, and on social media platforms to help build a following. Head shots may be required when applying for roles or auditions, as they provide a clear and professional representation of the person's appearance.

Actors, musicians, dancers, and models should update their head shots and portfolio regularly as they gain more experience and take on new roles. Their appearance and skill set may change, so it's important to have current head shots and portfolio images that accurately reflect their current look and abilities.

The industry is constantly changing and evolving, and casting directors and agents may prefer to see updated head shots and portfolio images that reflect current trends and styles.

Updating your head shots and portfolio can help you stand out in a competitive field, as you will be showcasing your most recent and relevant look.

Updating your head shots and portfolio is important to showcase your current look, skill set, and experience.
